

CROWBERRY CONSULTING

Environment, Ethics and Corporate Responsibility Management

Environmental Responsibility Policy

Crowberry Consulting is an environmental, ethics and corporate responsibility management consultancy based in the North West of England. Our business interacts with and impacts on the environment through our operations, and our intention is to minimise this and where possible, positively mitigate for such impacts.

Crowberry Consulting follows a set of procedures to help us to:

Comply with current and future environmental legislation.

Prevent pollution incidents and continuously improve on our environmental performance.

We monitor our environmental impact and will review and report on this annually.

Our key environmental impact areas are transport, energy consumption, and procurement and use of office equipment/stationery.

Our core value is to operate in an environmentally sound capacity, and to encourage our key stakeholders to engage in a positive way on these issues.

Crowberry Consulting encourages debate on environmental issues, and seeks to integrate environmental objectives into the everyday management of its business activities.

Crowberry Consulting is currently developing an environmental management system to achieve the above objectives.
